Sex Offender Fugitive Operations

The purpose of the Colorado Bureau of Investigation Sex Offender Fugitive Operations is to provide technical and analytical assistance to any local, federal, or out of state law enforcement agency regarding the identification, location, and apprehension of convicted sex offenders that are out of compliance with their registration requirements and have failed to register in Colorado. This includes maintaining a comprehensive database of all wanted offenders, creating detailed investigative files for each, and assisting the identification of offenders in need of failure to register warrants.

The Top 100 Most Wanted Failure to Register Sex Offenders is an ongoing effort with Colorado Crimestoppers to highlight the most dangerous offenders at large. A 24 hour tip line is also available for the public to anonymously submit information about wanted sex offenders.

In association with the United States Marshals' Service, the Colorado Bureau of Investigation has helped to create the Adam Walsh Task Force, a multi-jurisdictional information sharing network between local, state, and federal agencies to apprehend wanted sex offenders in Colorado and across the United States. Operation Shepherd is a statewide sex offender fugitive round up and compliance check coordinated by CBI and the Marshals' Service to bring together all of the resources of the Adam Walsh Task Force in a combined effort.
